March 2003 Edition (15th Issue)

Presidents Notes

Col. Jeff Leprone.

Ladies and Gentlemen,

Many of us are hard at work planning for short term contingencies and the Global War on Terrorism. The resulting deployments and high ops tempo are keeping us all very busy. Yet we must continue work on our strategic goals for our S.A.M.E. organization.

This is the first of three increments discussing this year's SAME National Goals. The goals are very important to this post because we must attempt to meet them to be eligible for streamer awards and the recognition those streamers bring.

The 2003 SAME annual plan, available at <http://www.same.org/documents/annualplan/annualplan2003.htm>, discusses the national SAME goals for 2003.

Goal 1 is to Engage in solutions through leadership. What this means is for post members to engage in dialogue by participating in discussions on national issues and represent SAME in a leading role (sponsor, organizer, speaker or panelist) at a minimum of three local, regional or national events addressing at least one of the following topics:

- Homeland Defense;
- The Nations Infrastructure; and
- Environmental Sustainability.

The goal encourages members to communicate ideas and give voice to SAME's value to the nation. More specifically:

- 10% of Post members should serve as speakers at either SAME meetings or other forums;
- 5% of Post members should publish articles in professional and/or general publications (The Military Engineer or SAME's News); and
- the Post should establish new contacts by sponsoring two community outreach events with appropriate media coverage to reach a broader audience.

Presidents Notes

The 2nd part of Goal 1 will be much easier for us to accomplish since military members are directly involved.

The post should work as a team to become a key resource for each of President Bush's priorities. Report at least three actions your Post members, committees or sustaining members have taken to contribute to one or all of these priorities:

- Win the war on terrorism;
- Protect the homeland; and
- Revitalize the economy.

I look forward to working with each of you as we achieve these goals for our post. Keep up the great work!
